

Telling Incest

Telling Incest
Narratives of Dangerous
Remembering from Stein to Sapphire

Janice Doane and Devon Hodges

ANN ARBOR
THE UNIVERSITY OF
MICHIGAN PRESS

Copyright © by the University of Michigan 2001
All rights reserved
Published in the United States of America by
The University of Michigan Press
Manufactured in the United States of America
⊗ Printed on acid-free paper

2004 2003 2002 2001 4 3 2 1

No part of this publication may be reproduced, stored in a retrieval system, or transmitted in any form
or by any means, electronic, mechanical, or otherwise, without the written permission of the publisher.

A CIP catalog record for this book is available from the British Library.

Library of Congress Cataloging-in-Publication Data

Doane, Janice L.

Telling incest : narratives of dangerous remembering from Stein to Sapphire / Janice Doane and Devon Hodges.

p. cm.

Includes bibliographical references and index.

ISBN 0-472-09794-6 (Cloth : alk. paper)

ISBN 0-472-06794-X (pbk. : alk. paper)

1. Incest. 2. Incest in literature. I. Hodges, Devon L., 1950–

II. Title.

HV6570.6 .D63 2001

306.877—dc21

2001002649

A small gift in exchange for large ones—

To Bill and Camille
—Jan

To David and Laurel
—Devon

Acknowledgments

This book was authored by Janice Doane and Devon Hodges, Inc. Incorporated in our work are the contributions of a large group of friends and colleagues. From the beginning, Tania Modleski encouraged us onward. Zofia Burr, Dina Copelman, Sandy Grayson, Carol Lashof, and Alok Yadav read the book in whole or in part, asking probing questions and making productive suggestions. Thorell Tsomondo provided stimulating conversation that helped keep the book going, then read a draft at the start of a busy term. Michelle Massé, after reading the manuscript, sent us meticulous, insightful comments. To these friends, generous and scrupulous scholars all, we owe a lasting debt.

Devon Hodges would also like to thank the National Endowment for Humanities for a fellowship that gave her time for research and writing. She also is grateful for a study leave from George Mason University. And to the other friends who have shared the travails and triumphs associated with the writing of this book—especially, Carmela Ciuraru, Lorna Irvine, Rosemary Jann, Deborah Kaplan, Barbara Melosh, Eileen Sypher, and Ellen Todd—she offers heartfelt tribute.

Janice Doane adds her thanks to Saint Mary's College for a sabbatical in spring 1999 and for the generous support provided by the Faculty Development Fund. Thanks also to the librarians at the College, especially Sharon Walters, for their help with research. The “Gang of Four” listened, advised, and celebrated; their friendship was a source of sustenance in every way.

LeAnn Fields, our editor, has been constant and constantly helpful. We greatly appreciate her confidence in our work. Two anonymous readers also provided wonderfully useful feedback. Their comments made revision less daunting. Acknowledgment is also made to the following: Hacking, Ian; Rewriting the Soul: Multiple Personality and the Science of Memory. Copyright © 1995 by PUP. Reprinted by permission of Princeton University Press. Passages from Gertrude Stein's The Making of Americans are reprinted by permission of the Estate of Gertrude Stein.

Finally, we gratefully acknowledge the support of our family members—Alex, Cecily, Eric, Jim, Sara, and Tristan. Our long and sustaining collaboration has thrived on their love and encouragement. For that collaboration, we also thank each other. After twenty-five years, we still find friendship to be a profound source of feminist practice and scholarship.

Contents

Introduction	1
Chapter 1 Ordinary Doings	11
Chapter 2 Signifying Incest African-American Revisions	31
Chapter 3 It's about Patriarchal Power White Feminists Speak Out	47
Chapter 4 The Canonical Incest Story	63
Chapter 5 The Science of Memory False-Memory Stories	79
Chapter 6 The Incest Survivor Memoir	99
Chapter 7 On the Borders of the Real	113
Notes	133
Works Cited	149
Index	159

