

Contents

|  |   |
|--|---|
| IntroductionPhilippa Kelly, Lloyd Davis, and Ronald Bedford | 1 |
|--|---|

PART I. SELF THEORIES

|  |    |
|--|----|
| Chapter 1. Critical Debates and Early Modern AutobiographyLloyd Davis                                 | 19 |
| Chapter 2. Specifying the Subject in Early Modern AutobiographyConal Condren                          | 35 |
| Chapter 3. On Being a Person: Elizabethan Acting and the Art ofSelf-RepresentationRonald Bedford | 49 |
| Chapter 4. Dialogues of Self-Reflection: Early Modern MirrorsPhilippa Kelly                           | 62 |

PART II. LIFE GENRES

|   |     |
|---|-----|
| Chapter 5. Thomas Hoccleve's Selves ApartAnne M. Scott   | 89  |
| Chapter 6. The Author in the Study: Self-Representation as Reader andWriter in the Medieval and Early Modern PeriodsPeter Goodall | 104 |
| Chapter 7. The Constitution of Narrative Identity in Seventeenth-CenturyPrison WritingDosia Reichardt                             | 115 |

|             |  |     |
|-------------|--|-----|
| Chapter 8.  | Selves in Strange Lands: Autobiography and Exile in the Mid-Seventeenth Century |     |
|             | Helen Wilcox   | 131 |
| Chapter 9.  | The Visual Autobiographic: Van Dyck's Portrait of Sir John Suckling             |     |
|             | Belinda Tiffen   | 160 |
| Chapter 10. | Where Is Shakespeare's Autobiography?   |     |
|             | R. S. White  | 174 |

PART III. SELF PRACTICES

|             |  |     |
|-------------|--|-----|
| Chapter 11. | Autobiography and the Discourse of Urban Subjectivity: The Paston Letters         |     |
|             | Helen Fulton   | 191 |
| Chapter 12. | Textualizing an Urban Life: The Case of Isabella Whitney                          |     |
|             | Jean E. Howard   | 217 |
| Chapter 13. | Accounting for a Life: The Household Accounts of Lady Anne Clifford               |     |
|             | Nancy E. Wright  | 234 |
| Chapter 14. | Designs on the Self: Inigo Jones, Marginal Writing, and Renaissance Self-Assembly |     |
|             | Liam E. Semler   | 252 |
| Chapter 15. | William Dampier's Unaccepted Life   |     |
|             | Adrian Mitchell  | 268 |
| Chapter 16. | Legal Autobiography in Early Modern England                                       |     |
|             | Wilfrid Prest  | 280 |
|             | Contributors   | 295 |
|             | Index  | 301 |