

CONTENTS

PART 1: Foundations	1
Chapter 1: Defining L2 Student Audiences	3
History of Second Language Higher Education: Teaching and Research	3
Different Student Audiences: Three Stories	6
Defining the Audiences	9
A Conceptual Framework	9
International Students	12
Dividing Late-Arriving and Early-Arriving Resident L2 Students	14
Late-Arriving Resident Students	17
Early-Arriving Resident Students	19
Questions for Reflection and Discussion	23
Chapter Endnotes	24
Chapter 2: Academic Language and Literacy and the Different L2 Student Audiences	25
Academic Language: An Overview	26
Linguistic Dimension	26
Cognitive Dimension	28
Sociocultural/Psychological Dimension	29
Academic Language: Summary	29
The Three L2 Student Audiences and Academic Language/Literacy Skills	29
Formal vs. Everyday Language Knowledge: “Eye” Learners	30
Formal vs. Everyday Language Knowledge: “Ear” Learners	31
Distinctions among “Ear” Learners	33
Specific Language Skills: Listening/Speaking	34
Specific Language Skills: Reading	36
Specific Language Skills: Writing	38
Second Language Writers: Generalizations from Previous Research	39
Writing Issues across the Three L2 Student Audiences	41
Questions for Reflection and Discussion	47
Chapter Endnotes	48

PART 2: Implications	49
Chapter 3: Different Student Audiences and Programmatic Issues	51
Curriculum and Placement	52
Curricular Questions: ESL or Mainstream Courses?	52
Curricular Questions: Which ESL Course?	56
Placement Issues: Identification of L2 Students	57
Placement Issues: Mechanisms	59
Placement Issues: Student Choice	60
Placement Issues: Who Decides?	61
Assessment	62
What Type(s) of Assessments?	62
What Skills Are Assessed?	64
Alternative Assessment Options	64
Who Should Score L2 Student Writing?	65
Assessment: Summary	66
Teacher Preparation	66
Teachers of Multilingual/L2 Writing Classes	67
Teachers of Mainstream Composition Courses	68
Teachers of Courses in the Disciplines	70
Questions for Reflection and Discussion	72
Chapter Endnotes	72
Appendix: Sample Student Questionnaire	74
Chapter 4: Different L2 Audiences and Course Design Options	75
Topics and Initial Assumptions	75
Needs Analysis	76
Goal-Setting	80
Historical Approaches to Teaching L2 Writing	82
General Characteristics of L2 Student Writers	83
Course Goals for the Different L2 Audiences	84
Balancing the Needs of Different Student Audiences	84
Tasks and Topics	86
Tasks	87
Topics	88
Materials Selection	91
Extensive Reading	91
Textbooks, Handbooks, and Other Materials	92
Specific Language Instruction	93
Treatment of Error	94
Academic Language Development	95

Classroom Assessment and Grading Practices	97
Considerations for “Mixed” (Mainstream and Multilingual) Classes	98
Specific Considerations for International Students	98
Questions for Reflection and Discussion	100
Chapter Endnotes	100
Chapter 5: Different L2 Audiences and Considerations for Classroom Instruction	101
Interaction Patterns	102
Overview of Issues	102
Teacher-Student Classroom Interactions	103
Teacher-Student Out-of-Class Interactions	105
Student-Student Interactions	106
Academic Language Development	106
Vocabulary Knowledge	107
Developing Reading and Writing Strategies and Processes	114
Feedback	117
Feedback Purposes	118
Content and Form of Feedback	118
Feedback Delivery Methods	120
Additional Support	122
Considerations for “Mixed” (Mainstream and Multilingual) Classes	123
Questions for Reflection and Discussion	125
Chapter Endnotes	126
PART 3: Applications	127
Chapter 6: Serving Diverse L2 Student Audiences: Where Do We Go from Here?	129
Students’ Own Voices	129
Current Models	131
Innovative Course Options	132
Support Services	133
Faculty Collaboration	134
Going Forward: Guiding Principles and Recommendations	135
Course Options	135
Support Services	136
Student Identification and Placement	136
Assessment	137
Teacher Preparation	137

Further Research on Diverse L2 Student Audiences	139
Questions for Reflection and Discussion	142
Chapter Endnotes	143
Appendix: Survey Questions	144
Postscript: A Plea for Greater Collaboration among Writing Professionals	147
Postscript Endnote	149
References	150
Index	163