

Contents

Preface and Acknowledgments	viii
Introduction	i
ONE What Is Breed Rescue?	35
TWO The Overwhelming Predominance of Women in the World of Dog Rescue: The State of Michigan as a Representative Case Study Enhanced by Relevant Interview Data from Rescuers Elsewhere	64
THREE The Topography of Breed Specific Dog Registrations from 1960 to 2009: An Important Contextual Framework for Rescue	80
FOUR The History of Golden Retriever Rescue as a Case Study of Breed Specific Rescue	107
FIVE Regionalism in the Breed Rescue World	155
SIX Rescue Groups and External Relationships	175
SEVEN Communication, Networking, and Sustenance	203
EIGHT The Golden/Labrador Retriever Comparison	239
NINE The Unique Case of Greyhound Rescue	259
TEN Changing Discourse of Compassion within Breed Specific Rescue in the United States: “Good” Breeds versus “Bad” Breeds: The Case of Pit Bulls	276

Conclusion 297

Appendix A: Data from Our Survey of Michigan Rescues 307

Appendix B: Breed Specific Canine Rescue Survey 311

Appendix C: Interview Questionnaire 329

Appendix D: Interview Subjects 333

Index 337