

Contents

Foreword	ix
Yair Hirschfeld
Introduction: Conceptualizing the Political Economy of Regional Peacemaking	1
Norrin M. Ripsman and Steven E. Lobell
Chapter 1 The Economics of Peacemaking: Lessons from Western Europe and the Middle East	23
Norrin M. Ripsman
Chapter 2 The Second Face of Regional Peacemaking: Israel and Jordan, 1985–2001	35
Steven E. Lobell
Chapter 3 Economic Statecraft and Transitions to Peace: France, Germany, and Poland	49
Galia Press-Barnathan
Chapter 4 Making Peace with Nonstate Armed Actors: The Role of Economic Incentives	73
Marie-Joëlle Zahar
Chapter 5 Economic Incentives, Rivalry Deescalation, and Regional Transformation	96
William R. Thompson
Chapter 6 The Political Economy of Sino-Japanese Ties: The Limits and Risks of Economic Statecraft	118
Jean-Marc F. Blanchard

viii CONTENTS

Chapter 7	Winning Hearts and Minds? On the Sources and Efficacy of Economic Engagement Policies in US-China and China-Taiwan Relations	144
	Scott L. Kastner and Margaret M. Pearson
Chapter 8	Economic Statecraft as a Tool of Peacemaking? China's Relationships with India and Russia	169
	William Norris
Chapter 9	The Institutional Design of Preferential Trade Agreements and the Maintenance of Peace	192
	Edward D. Mansfeld and Jon C. W. Pevehouse
Conclusion:	Economic Statecraft and Regional Peacemaking	221
	Peter Dombrowski
	Contributors	241
	Index	247